Your Usage Breakdown

This graph shows the amount you have spent on electricity per day, for this billing period.

Also, a comparison of what you have used this period compared to previous periods.

The accounts that cover summer and winter will often be higher (due to heating and cooling costs) than those that cover spring and autumn.

This graph also shows the greenhouse gas emissions produced from your home electricity usage.

You will also see a benchmarking table which allows you to compare your quarterly usage to the average quarterly usage of other households in your area.
